Denys

Today I'm not including Denys' report in "News From the Battlefield." Instead, Denys' report becomes the "lead." In his report sent the day before yesterday, Denys verbally filleted Republican Presidential Candidate Vivek Ramaswamy, over Ramaswamy's remarks about Ukraine in last Wednesday's Republican Presidential debate. Denys' filleting starts at 14:30 into his video.

I will make only one comment about Denys' response to one of the claims that Ramaswamy made, that Ukraine curtails the civil liberties. It around 15:15 into the video Danys mentions that the U.S. has laws on the books to curtail the individual rights of Americans. Denys is correct. In 1863, during the Civil War, the U.S. Congress passed, "An Act relating to Habeas Corpus, and regulating Judicial Proceedings in Certain Cases," allowing President Lincoln to suspend the right of Habeas Corpus that protects Americans from being jailed without charges. In 1918 Congress passed the Sedition Act, that was used against individual Americans who opposed U.S. entry into WW-I. In 1798 Congress passed the Alien & Sedition Acts, "The Sedition Act made it a crime for American citizens to "print, utter, or publish...any false, scandalous, and malicious writing" about the government."

It seems that Denys knows more about American history and civics than Ramaswamy does. Vivek Ramaswamy is criticizing Ukraine for doing the same thing that the U.S. has done, throughout its history. In fact, Ukraine has done no such thing. As Denys points out, criticism of President Zelenskyy's government is common among Ukrainian journalists.

Denys refers to Ramaswamy as the "Z-Clown," with "Z" referring to the markings that Russians put on their tanks." I completely agree. I refer to Ramaswamy in another way that I won't share here, other to say that it relates to an old rock-n-roll song from the 1950s, called the "Doo Wopp" style. The name of the song is "Rammalammadingdong." Those of you who good at alliteration can take it from there. If any recipient wants me to elaborate, they can send me an email.

A friend of mine remarked that it was interesting to him that the dispute between Vivek Ramaswamy and his rival for the Republican nomination, Nikki Haley, was a dispute between 2 individuals whose families originally came from India. True, but an oversimplification.

I've traveled throughout much of India. India is roughly the same size as Continental Europe, minus Russia, with the same ethnic diversity that can be found in Europe. In other words, the dispute between Haley and Ramaswamy might be compared to a dispute between a Swede and an Italian.

In the case of Ramaswamy and Haley, the analogy happens to be quite accurate. Ramaswamy is Tamil from Kerala, a region in Southern India, whereas Haley is from a Sikh family, likely from Punjab in Northern India. The distance between Punjab and Kerala is roughly the equivalent of the distance between Italy and Scandinavia, with differing cultural traditions to match.

The fact that Nikki Haley and Vivek Ramaswamy are both running to become President of the United States, with vastly different views about U.S. national security and foreign policy, is exactly what makes the United States a great country. God bless Denys!

News From the Battlefield

“Reporting From Ukraine” covered the sinking of 2 Russian amphibious landing ships that were berthed in Chernomorskiy, on the west coast of Crimea. As mentioned, the landing ships have been used by Russia in re-supply operations and are thus critical to Russian logistics. The “Latest Denys” (not the earlier one in which he verbally filleted Vivek Ramaswamy), contains photos of similar ships. As Denys mentions, the operations in the Dnipro Delta have similarities to American operations in the Mekong Delta during the Vietnam War.

“Reporting From Ukraine” also contains footage of the destruction of a Russian supply column delivering ammunition and supplies to Russian troops operating in Kherson, likely against Ukrainian units who have successfully crossed the Dnipro River. It seems that the Russians have learned nothing from their experiences in the Battle for Kyiv, when similar columns were cut to pieces by Ukrainians using light anti-tank weapons. The use of weapons have changed, Ukraine now makes more use of drones, but Russian tactics are the same.
